These parts are emboldened or underlined and also bold and italicized.

You can also italicize with this command. The `emph` and `textit` behave slightly differently.

1.1 Common symbols

If you want to insert an `&` or `$`, you need a back slash before you do so, since Latex reserves these for alignment commands and math environment commands respectively.

1.2 IMPORTANT NOTE

You should never manually type numbers of equations, tables, figures, page numbers, citations, etc. Let Latex handle this referencing and labeling for you.

To add a list, use

1. This is an item

or
